Directoire Period "clothes Throw" Sofa Upholstered In Lelièvre Silk - 170cm

2 000 EUR

Period : 18th century

Condition : Parfait état

Material : Painted wood

Description

Finely carved beech sofa, model with fluted front legs, topped with a connecting die in rose and Etruscan saber front legs. The belt carved with a row of piastres, armrest supports with fluted balusters, the backrest with scroll. It is newly upholstered in silk gourgouran with Champagne-colored lines (Fontenay model by Tassinari and Châtel). Our seat is a Parisian manufacture in the style of Jacob from the Directoire period, late 18th century to mid-1790s. It is interesting to note that this type of seat is the transitional style between the Louis XVI style and the Empire: the front of the seat is still very Louis XVI, while the back with the scrolled backrest and saber legs announces the Empire style. It is ideal for a living room, or to place in a bedroom used as a "clothes thrower" Excellent condition.
