Charles HERRMANN-LÉON (born Léon Charles Sigismond HERRMANN)(Le Havre 1838 - Paris 1908)Portrait of a young womanOil on canvasH. 54 cm ; W. 41 cmSigned and dated top right - 1877Opera lovers will certainly recognize this surname, borne by a well-known bass from the first half of the 19th century. This man was the father of our painter, whose stage name he kept.A pupil of Eugène Fromentin and Philippe Rousseau, the young Léon Herrmann very quickly specialized in animal painting and genre scenes decorated with quadrupeds and birds. From his first exhibitions at the Salon des Artistes Française in 1867, he was noted for his talent and the clarity of his works. He received the 3rd and 2nd class medals and was quickly classified Hors Concours.Herrmann-Léon presents here the only
