Very nice little painting by Jean Breant: floods in Sahurs Oil on cardboard, with magnificent colors, signed lower right and located on the back
Interesting format, sold framed Dimensions: 34 by 27 cm About: Jean Bréant is a French painter of the Rouen School, born February 17, 1922 in Rouen and died May 15, 1984 in Lyon. Very young, he showed great talent for music. From 1933 to 1937, he studied piano and organ at the Maîtrise Saint-Evode, he reached the level of concert pianist and he considered making it his profession. At the same time, from the age of nine, he began painting. Jean Bréant, a disciple of the Rouen school, was fascinated by post-impressionist painting; for him, sensation took precedence over representation.
