Description

"Dompedro" in mahogany wood. 19th-20th century A piece of furniture with a polygonal section used to conceal the chamber pot under the lid and to facilitate its use thanks to a removable footrest. Models very similar to this one were already in use in the 19th century, and this piece of furniture was common in homes until the 19th century. Note its resemblance to the one preserved at the Museum of Romanticism in Madrid. Madrid. - Dimensions: 45x45x46 cm
