Description

Patinated plaster male bust by the sculptress Ernestine Sirine-Réal (1899-1994), signed on the front "Alphonse de Montparnasse" and on the back "Sirine". This expressive work depicts a man with a lively gaze and a slightly inclined posture, realistically capturing the model's features. The artist, active in 1920s Paris, follows the tradition of sculpted portraits in the artistic Montparnasse, where models from diverse cultural backgrounds inspired creators. A chip prevents the date inscribed on the work from being readable, but it is established that it was created in 1925. A striking piece, testifying to the artistic richness of the period.
