Description

A 19th-century cane handle, distinguished by its chimera shape in finely chiseled gold. A valuable collector's item, the animal's removable mouth reveals a secret vinaigrette-style compartment, intended to hold flavored vinegars to guard against any unpleasant odors. Notice the necklace of the mythological animal, encrusted with precious and fine stones, such as emeralds, rubies, turquoises and pearls... This object is a historical and magnificent witness to forgotten uses and techniques. 18K (750/000) yellow gold
