Description

Persia, SHASAVAN Persian rugsMid-19th century CaucasusSuperb rectangular bag or cradle in kilim and sumak work (mixed technique) - these bags were often used as beds for babies and were then reused to store and transport clothes, food, etc. Very nice natural and vegetal colors, very bright.Dimensionsapprox 112cm long * 60cm wide * 43cm high Very good condition, due to a very tight wool-on-wool weave and thick, high-quality woolThese rugs were solid and of high quality, made for daily and repeated use. The 2 short sides were sometimes removed to unfold them and use them as a floor rug. These are complete in their original configuration, and have been cleaned. Very decorative and colorful, they can match all types of interior, to store all types of books, clothes, ... (A simple wooden
