Description

A true collector's item, a polychrome wooden transport case from the 18th century, used for wine tasting and often in taverns; forged hinges and fittings, a working key, a mechanism that opens and closes a drawer on the front, this object is particularly well-crafted. Inside, there are the blown bottles in thick glass and their glasses used for tasting, all compartmentalized in the case; an object that tells a little-known story.
