Description

Oil painting on canvas from the late 18th century of French origin. The painting features the portrait of a young woman, where she is portrayed with one arm raised, as if she were leaning on something and with a serene and attentive gaze towards the person who is portraying her. In her simplicity she is depicted in her natural beauty and harmony. The great mastery of the painter in highlighting the delicate and graceful features of the face should be highlighted. The painting has been restored and relined and is inserted in an antique frame of the period but not original to the painting itself, gilded with the silver and mixture technique.PERIOD Late 18th centuryDIMENSIONS With frame L. cm 60 x H. cm 71 dimensions of the canvas L. cm 46 x H. cm
