Ewer "called "Aftafa", in formerly tinned brass, decorated on all sides with interlacing, friezes, stylized flowers, numerous tribal motifs and scenes of princely life. Engraved on both sides of the medallions (photos): # of a Persian princely scene surmounted by a hare Our model comes from the North-West of Persia, Eastern Iran, Azerbaijan. A bronze handle cast in Esse, beautiful engravings and a patina due to time underline this admirable object. The dominic-shaped stopper supports a smooth fretel finished with a point. Note the numerous facets shaped like scales constituting the neck and the re-engraved facets of stylized flowers for the pouring board. The presence of numerous birds, interlacing roses and ivy, scenes of Persian life, hares, symbol of the believer, embellish these
