Description

Paire dandélabre silver, each lit by a torch arm in the middle and five off-centered. Twelve candles can therefore be installed in leafy sockets, resting on bobeches in the same spirit. These plant decorations continue on the arms supporting the candlesticks, and gathered on a central shaft worked with knob. Each candelabra ends with a pedestal repeating these rocaille motifs in relief. It should be noted that these candlesticks are removable for easy cleaning. This pair of pretty and generous candelabras will perfect an already chic decoration on a daily basis, or will be reserved for the occasion of dinners of particular importance. Period: 19th century
