Description

I eagerly await the requested clarifications from the Tienen sugar refinery, which, at the beginning of the 20th century, produced this set of bottles for educational purposes. These 16 samples with their gourmet labels were enthroned in the science classroom. At the time, we savored, from memory, the sensation of biting into a solid piece of sugar, which remained nestled in its wax-sealed glass bottle... I will follow up with the buyer of this archival treasure.
