Description

Elegant, unique and rare Sicilian showcase from the Charles X era 1824 - 1830, all glass, made of solid maple wood, and inlaid with plant motifs, curls, shells, and all trimmed in rosewood. In addition to its elegance, its shape should be highlighted, which makes it a display showcase. Special opening of the front door, which is done by sliding it to the left. Being all glass and in particular with the two large front glasses, they allow a complete view of everything that will be displayed in it. The showcase is original in every part including its lock and key.
