Description

Tall turned bronze candlestick, George II period or that of his son, circa 1750, it incorporates in its rather classic structure, a lateral pull system, very practical and promised a great future... The "slide-ejector", described and photographed in the book by Ronald F. Michaelis, p 130-129, on the other hand led to size of candlestick to increase, giving a top-hat candlestick. 25cm x 11.5cm, weight: 0.5kg. Take a good look on our photos....
