Description

Jewel reproducing a violin, made of 750/°° yellow gold (18 KT, hallmarked) in a faithful and realistic manner. The finesse of the work gives preciousness to the instrument, which was thus certainly designed to pay homage to a virtuoso....This jewel can be worn as a brooch, as one might assume at first glance, but it is also equipped with a bail allowing it to be worn as a pendant. This one, of sufficient size, allows one to consider wearing the pendant with all types of chains and necklaces, even the most opulent. The pin system is secured by a rotating latch. With a fine and precise realization, each part of this violin is highlighted: - its body, finely guilloché in crosspieces, has a matte and luminous rendering at the same time - its sound holes are delicately openworked - its neck has been
