Description

20th Century,
Venetian Baroque Stile Carved and Laquered Giltwood Bench This small center bench was made in the Venetian baroque style around the early twentieth century. The structure is in carved, lacquered and gilded wood and the seat is upholstered in fabric. The band under the seat is lacquered in the tone of ochre. It also has some decorations made of cast plaster that give three-dimensionality and relief, painted in polychrome and depicting small architectures of oriental taste and floral motifs. It ends with a carving in golden rocaille motifs. The six legs are moved and arched. They also have the same carvings, lacquering and polychrome decorations.

The bench is very decorative and pleasant thanks to its light color. You can place it in any furnishing context, placing it in an entrance or hallway, in a living room or study even in the center of the environment, but also in a bedroom.
