Rare Regency Period Mason's Ironstone Oyster Pattern Sauce Tureen, England C.1815-1825

600 EUR

Signature : Mason's Ironstone

Period : 19th century

Condition : Bon état

Material : Sandstone

Width : 13,5 cm

Height : 13,5 cm

Depth : 8,5 cm

Description

Rare early Mason's Ironstone sauce tureen, Oyster Pattern, circa 1815-1825This fine early 19th-century English Mason's Ironstone sauce tureen is a rare example of Regency period ceramic craftsmanship. Decorated in the vibrant "Oyster Pattern," it showcases hand-painted peonies and stylised foliage in rich shades of iron red, cobalt blue, and highlighted with delicate gilding. The intricate decoration sits against a white ground, framed by a striking turquoise-glazed footed base that creates a beautiful contrast with the vivid colours above.The tureen is finished with ornate moulded side handles, each painted in deep cobalt and gilt, and topped with a scroll-moulded finial on the lid. The combination of bold Imari-inspired colours, hand-applied enamels, and careful moulding

Dealer

Gillers Antiques

Specialists in 19th-century European silverware, porcelain and décor

Mobile : +44 (0) 7341 404636

Buntingford SG9 0PY

reflects the best of Mason's early production during the Regency period.This piece would make a striking addition to any collection of English porcelain, Ironstone ware, or Regency tableware. Ideal for use as a decorative display piece on a dresser, sideboard, or in a period kitchen setting.Historical BackgroundMason's Ironstone was first produced in the early 19th century by Charles James Mason after he patented his durable ironstone china in 1813. Famed for their vivid Imari-style patterns and rich colour palettes, early Mason's pieces are highly sought-after by collectors today.MeasurementsWeight: 795 gHeight: 13.5 cm to finial, 7 cm to rimBase dimensions: 13.5 cm x 8.5 cmConditionGood antique condition. There are hairline cracks to the base and cracks near the handles, commensurate with age and use. Displays beautifully with vibrant colours and detailed hand-painting. Please review all photographs carefully to appreciate the craftsmanship and condition.Shipping & PackagingProfessionally packed for safe deliveryFully tracked and insured shippingCustoms paperwork provided where necessary for smooth international deliveryPlease feel free to ask any questions.