Description

Double-leaf door in carved walnut and pine. 18th century. In need of restoration. The two panels are decorated with geometric elements framed by moldings. The frame is distinguished by the movement and importance of its moldings: the semicircles in the center of the sides and the widening of the corners recall Baroque models. This type of decorative element was used in important houses and was frequently replaced when stylistic innovations were required, which is why it is not often preserved. - Dimensions: 226x15x275 cm
