Description

Small Wellington mahogany writing desk, dating from the second half of the 19th century. This piece of furniture, emblematic of the Victorian era, seduces with its timeless elegance and functionality. This piece of furniture is distinguished by its concealed flap and its drawers secured by an ingenious locking system. This writing desk has five storage drawers and a sliding writing desk area composed of four compartments and two small drawers. The flap is upholstered in new green leather with a gold vignette. The drawers are decorated with wooden knobs. The uprights are decorated at the top with carved consoles depicting leaves, a bunch of fruit, and flowers. The piece of furniture rests on crushed legs topped with a plinth. A window onto the style and traditions of the Victorian era, this
