Condition : Bon état

Material : Solid wood

Description

Magnificent and exceptional carved wooden statue lacquered in gold and painted from Vietnam measuring 1 meter high by 50cm deep and 65cm wide with removable arms dating from around 1800 or early 19th century It represents "Bodhisattva" with his twelve arms on an inverted lotus base independent of the statue, eight are removable, they are simply nested The popularity of the Bodhisattva goes far beyond simple Vietnamese Buddhism. He is the object of important devotion in other Far Eastern countries such as China, Korea and Japan This work is exceptional for its dimensions, and its state of conservation despite some small accidents that I point out so as not to be criticized for it the shipping is free for the European Union a flat rate of 500 euros is requested for International
