A fractalated resin sculpture by French artist Gilles Charbin, revealing a striking depth of golden, amber, and gray tones. This singular work perfectly illustrates Charbin's technical mastery and organic aesthetic, exploring the material in all its visual complexity. A graduate of the École des Métiers d'Art and the École des Beaux-Arts in the 1960s, Gilles Charbin distinguished himself with his sculptural and decorative creations, collaborating with major names in design and exhibiting at international fairs. Through this piece, the artist delivers a hypnotic and sculptural work, somewhere between a decorative object and a poetic form. Signed under the base.
