Description

Antique Persian Shiraz Rug from the Qashqai Nomadic Tribes - Dimensions: 1.57 X 2.25 Meters - Period: Late 19th Century This rare Shiraz rug, hand-knotted by the Qashqai tribes, dates from the late 19th or early 20th century. Its unique design is distinguished by a completely random composition, without any symmetry. with a profusion of diverse and varied patterns, all done in a geometric manner. The weave is supple in wool and animal hair. The dyes used for dyeing come mainly from plant and mineral sources, adding a richness of natural hues. The inspiration for these patterns is strongly rooted in local folklore and superstitions, while also drawing inspiration from the frescoes and columns of ancient Persepolis, located nearby. Holes and wear, remains very decorative in its
