Description

Very beautiful bronze horse head, formerly sealed on the facade of a farrier's workshop (it has its wrought iron sealing tab on the reverse). * 19th century * In view of its relatively modest size, I think it is a farrier's sign, unlike the larger models used in horse butchers' shops, which are usually made of zinc painted or patinated in gold. Height: 14.3 cm / Width max. 13.8 cm / Depth: 10.8 cm Weight: 3725 g If you have any questions, don't hesitate to contact us.
