Very beautiful oil on canvas by Victor CHARRETON (1864 - 1936) signed lower left - Snow landscape Work titled on the back "Remains of snow from Berthelange" and dated 1901 Dimensions without frame: 54 x 73 cm Louis XV style frame in gilded stucco, Napoleon III period This painting represents a countryside scene at the end of winter. Victor Charreton's impressionist style is clearly identifiable here by his thick and vibrant brushstrokes, as well as by his palette rich in nuances, he who often worked outdoors. The tones are soft and nuanced, dominated by mossy greens, snow whites, and soft ochres. The sky, pale and slightly washed, contributes to the tranquil and melancholic atmosphere.
