Description

Animal sculpture in spelter of an elephant and its young by the sculptor Irénée Rochard born in 1906 in Vilefranche-Sur-Saône, in Auvergne Rhône Alpes, and died in Paris in 1984. The sculpture is signed on the black marble terrace. Rochard joined the School of Fine Arts very early on, then the School of Decorative Arts. In 1938 he joined the Society of French Artists and obtained several prizes and distinctions. We note in this sculpture the delicacy and precision of the artist's work, which was attached to the very lively representation of animals. Dimensions of the base 59 cm X 18 cm
