Description

Oil on canvas portraying a village scene under a vivid blue sky, with a church tower rising above the trees and traditional houses nestled into a green hillside. The composition captures the contrast between architectural forms and the surrounding vegetation, bathed in the crisp light of what appears to be late morning or early afternoon. The artist applies color in a way that gives vibrancy and depth to the scene, suggesting an affinity with post-impressionist landscape traditions, possibly rooted in mid-20th century Catalan painting. The piece is signed "A. Coll Solà" and dated 1969 in the lower right corner. While little biographical information is available, other landscape works by this artist--similar in technique and subject--can be found on the market, indicating an active painter with a
