Description

This magnificent antique Chinese rug, handmade around 1940 in Beijing, is a rare piece from the "Fine Antique" collection. Entirely knotted in wool, it seduces with its refined decoration on a lightly patinated Havana background, highlighting a series of flowered cloisonné vases, placed in a typically Chinese pictorial style. Its main border is decorated with a repetitive motif, sheltering clouds of peonies, creating a subtle balance between geometry and floral elements. The whole bears witness to exceptional work, combining artistic finesse and artisanal quality. A symbol of beauty and prosperity in China, the peony is often represented in traditional arts. It evokes both elegance and wishes for wealth, particularly in popular images of the Chinese New Year. A precious decorative piece, ideal for
