Description

Bust of a little girl, after Jean-Baptiste Saly - Edition of the Louvre Museum Shops Charming reproduction in patinated plaster of a famous bust of a little girl created by the sculptor Jean-Baptiste Saly (1717-1776), eminent figure of 18th-century French classicism. This print comes from the official editions of the Louvre Museum shops, as attested by the stamp visible on the base. The model, of great softness and delicate refinement, is superbly rendered here with a carefully worked patina that evokes ancient terracotta. The child's collected expression, the finesse of the modeling and the quality of the cast make it a decorative piece full of poetry, ideal for a library, an office or a classic interior. Engraved signature: Saly Official stamp: Réunion des Musées Nationaux - Musée du
