Description

Sober and elegant bedside table open on all sides on spindle legs, a drawer moved by a swinging bronze ring, top edged in fine white Carrara marble, open niche. This charming little blond colored piece of furniture is perfect for making a sofa end and a mini library, its not very fragile top allows you to put your cup of tea there and especially to support the lamp which will light your reading. Easy to place and refined this piece of furniture can be seen in many places, in particular it is easy to move as you wish. It has the pure and stripped line of the end of the 18th century of a late Louis XVI, Provincial as desired and practical, decorative in a neo-classical universe of good alloy, it has been well preserved over time and can still provide service in all simplicity in a sobriety full of elegance...
