Description

This refined 19th-century French display table is a rare example of understated elegance and fine craftsmanship. Made of walnut with delicate inlays, it features a glass top and glazed side panels, allowing a clear view of the interior from every angle--ideal for showcasing treasured collections, jewelry, or curiosities. The interior is lined with a vibrant red fabric that adds a touch of drama and highlights whatever is placed inside. The hinged glass lid lifts smoothly to provide easy access to the display area, while two discreet pull-out trays on either side offers an extra surface--perfect for arranging items or supporting a book or catalogue. Raised on tapered legs, the piece is both light and stable, blending functionality with a graceful silhouette. In excellent antique condition with light wear
