Description

Omar Ronda, Set of three "Frozen," 2000s These works belong to Omar Ronda's "Frozen" series, and follow the artist's distinctive style, with compositions that capture natural elements "frozen" in transparent resins, accompanied by vivid bursts of color. The works feature botanical elements, such as leaves, branches and ferns, and sometimes small symbolic objects (starfish or decorations), trapped in translucent layers. These are surrounded by vivid abstract colors, achieved through pigments and overlay techniques that create visual depth. The theme explores the relationship between time and nature, crystallizing ephemeral details of reality and transforming them into eternal works of art. Each work is distinguished by the use of intense hues and strong color contrasts, evoking energy
