Description

Travel Cutlery Set composed of two knives with ivory handles and silver ferrules, presented in a black leather case. This set is the result of an assemblage between two 19th-century knives and an 18th-century case.- One of the knives has a silver blade, bearing an indistinct hallmark along with the mark A. Chapus Paris. A. Chapus appears to have been a silversmithing, jewelry, watchmaking, and bronze house, founded in 1797 at 86 Rue de Rivoli under the sign À La Gerbe d'Or.- The second knife has a steel blade with no markings.- The case, covered in black leather over a wooden core, opens with a push-button mechanism and reveals a red felt interior designed to hold the knives.- A distinction between the two handles is visible when the knives are stored, thanks to a notched decoration
