Description

Adorable group in German porcelain, Volkstedt Rudolstadt, Thuringia, from the mid-19th century, in the Baroque style. A small Bacchus raising his cup, standing on a rock, leads the dance of four cherubs who, at his feet, celebrate the Wonders of Nature: flowers, shells, pollinating insects, and no doubt a mushroom was in the hand of the fourth... A very great finesse of forms and polychromy characterize this charming object. In very good general condition, it has some small lacks: the tip of the pink belt of Cupid breathing the scent of a rose is missing, as well as the supposed mushroom or bouquet that the cherub with the red and gold veil was holding..., and the tiny tip of 2 of his fingers, but this is very little visible. All the rest is free of losses, cracks or chips. Signature "au soleil" under the base, in
