Description

Three-part silver spice rack. 19th century. Spice rack composed of three bodies with lowered edges so that they fit together and join in a half-oval with a chamfer at the top, decorated with simple lines, as befits a 19th-century work influenced by neoclassicism. This type of spice rack is reminiscent, in its design, of the so-called "tower" examples, made during the Renaissance, but much more simplified. Weight: 150 grams. - Dimensions: 5x5x5.5 cm
