

Antique George IV Sterling Silver Chalice / Goblet London 1826 By William Eaton

1 100 EUR

Period : 19th century

Condition : Bon état

Material : Silver metal

Description

This exquisite George IV sterling silver chalice, crafted by the renowned silversmith William Eaton in 1826, is a fine example of the opulent design and superior craftsmanship characteristic of Georgian silver. Hallmarked in London, this piece is not only a functional item but also a work of art, reflecting the elegance and detailed artistry of the period. The chalice features ornate decoration, with vine leaves and grapes adorning the base. This intricate motif not only enhances its aesthetic appeal but also symbolizes abundance and celebration, making it particularly suitable for use in ceremonial settings. Measuring 16.5 cm in height and 11 cm in diameter, the chalice is of substantial size, making it a striking centerpiece for any collection or display. Weighing 370 grams, it is crafted from a heavy

Dealer

Bushells Antiques

Antiques and Jewellery

Mobile : +447956268290

71-75 Shelton Street

Covent Garden WC2H

gauge of silver, ensuring its durability and quality. The interior of the chalice is gilded, adding a touch of luxury and providing a protective layer that enhances the durability of the piece. This gilding also provides a beautiful contrast to the sterling silver exterior, highlighting the craftsmanship and design details. In overall excellent condition, this chalice not only represents historical and artistic value but also serves as a magnificent decorative object. It would be highly prized by collectors of antique silver and those who appreciate Georgian design. Whether displayed in a collection or used for special occasions, this chalice is sure to be admired for its beauty and craftsmanship.