painting and drawing from an early age. He entered the School of Fine Arts in Lyon at the age of twelve. He received awards in his first year. He was a student of Gérôme, one of the most famous artists of his time, and of Alexandre Cabanel, a great academic painter. His journeys to Marseille, Sicily, and Italy allowed him to enrich his experience. He excelled in all pictorial genres: landscapes, genre scenes, portraits, still lifes, historical and military representations. Museums: Tournus, Chambéry, Nice, Rumilly, Nuits Sain-Georges.
