Description

Beautiful pair of bronze photo frames from the Art Nouveau period (1890-1910). Signed lower left "M.RINGEL". A lying figure drinking is represented in the lower part of the decoration, a bird seems to attack him despite his peaceful attitude (leaning and lying down). On his left, a jug and other objects. Another figure is represented here, this one is standing and playing the bagpipes. All the rest of the decoration is in full Art Nouveau style, naturalistic forms including climbing plants, flowers, fruits and animals. A woman's profile is timidly revealed on the left side of the decoration. On the back, a bronze screw system to hold the back plate and the glass. One screw is missing on one of the frames. Bronze support also stylized. Very good quality bronze, beautiful patina, in perfect
