Description

White background with polychrome decoration representing a snowy landscape. To the left on a hill, a rustic-style stone house, with snow-covered roofs. Bare trees confirm the winter season. In the foreground, a couple (probably peasants or villagers) walk in the snow, while their child is installed in a small sled that he slides with the help of a stick. Wide golden lines on the fall and on the edge.Dimension(s): Diam. 22 cm,Condition(s): PERFECT CONDITION,Era: EARLY 19TH CENTURY.Snow landscapes are rare on Paris porcelain at the beginning of the 19th century. They do not correspond to the classical decorations of the time, nor to decorative uses, which favor bucolic, idealized and colorful scenes.Moreover, this type of decoration requires mastery of subtle plays of
