Description

High-backed armchair from the Regency period, early 18th century, in carved and molded beech. Our seat has fretwork throughout its entire arch. Fine shells adorn the center. The recessed armrests, as well as the four legs of the armchair, are also carved. This large seat is in used condition. Small losses, some restorations and refilling are to be noted (in particular the end of the legs). This armchair is in used condition. It will need to be completely reupholstered and covered. The price takes this condition into account.
