Description

Dimensions:Fragment A: 26 × 22 cmFragment B: 25 × 23 cmElegant pair of architectural fragments in marble, dating back to the Renaissance and recovered from a historic palace in Vicenza, Italy. Made of Carrara marble with inlays of Rouge de France and a dark marble (origin unknown), these decorative elements feature a refined geometric and chromatic composition.The two pieces, slightly different in size and details, were likely part of an altar or a decorative architectural feature from a church or noble residence. The precise relief work and harmony of materials reflect the high craftsmanship of the period.Worldwide shipping available. Feel free to contact us for any further information.
