Description

Oil on double-sided panel. Representation of a summer peasant scene on the front. Working in a field, two figures are sowing seeds. Other figures seem to be moving away from the field and returning to the village that we see in the background. Beautiful cloudless blue sky in the background. The other side offers us a wooded landscape that nevertheless seems dry. A city is outlined on the horizon. Beautiful painting technique. No trace of signature or date. The panel itself is in very good condition. Most likely a popular work from the first half of the 20th century. Free shipping for mainland France. Contact by email preferred. I remain at your disposal for further information or additional photos.
