Description

A fine example of colonial-era devotion and artistry, this 18th-century Spanish silver crucifix is a striking religious artifact crafted entirely from solid silver. With graceful proportions and traditional iconography, the figure of Christ is rendered with solemn detail, evoking both reverence and timeless craftsmanship. Surmounted by the classic INRI inscription, the cross is designed with a small loop for hanging or wearing as a devotional pendant. The piece is lightly aged, bearing the warm patina and character typical of authentic 18th-century ecclesiastical silverwork. Origin: Spain Material: Solid silver Dimensions: 9 cm (H) x 6 cm (W) x 1 cm (D) Condition: Excellent antique condition with expected surface wear Ideal for collectors of religious art, historic silver, or devotional objects.
