Description

This Versailles vase, created by René Lalique in 1939, aptly illustrates the alliance between classical tradition and French glassmaking expertise. Inspired by ancient forms, it takes on the allure of the Medici vases, reinterpreted here in a sober and refined aesthetic specific to Art Deco. The floral decoration with vine leaves, delicately sculpted in satin relief, punctuates the ample shape of the vase, creating a subtle play between opacity and transparency. The piece is entirely handmade in the Lalique workshops in Wingen-sur-Moder, respecting traditional techniques. It is in perfect condition. This vase fits equally well in a contemporary interior as in a more classic decor, where it will naturally find its place as a decorative object or central element of composition. Weight: 8.9 kg Carefully packaged
