Description

A dramatic rural landscape beneath a vast cloud-filled sky, likely depicting a village scene in Catalonia. Earthy tones and dynamic brushwork evoke a sense of stillness and solitude.Movement:Catalan Romanticism transitioning into Early 20th-Century NaturalismArtist Influence:Modest Urgell - evident in the melancholic atmosphere, dusky palette, and compositional restraint. Bosch i Canals was directly mentored by Urgell at the Escola de la Llotja.Artist:Andreu Bosch i Canals (1881-1966) - Catalan painter known for his emotive, atmospheric landscapes. A pupil of Modest Urgell, he exhibited widely in Barcelona and received consistent praise during his lifetime. Though he avoided fame, his refined style and historical importance are well recognized

He studied at the Escola de la Llotja under the influential artist Modest Urgell, whose melancholic style deeply shaped Bosch Canals' early work. Over time, he developed a more vibrant and personal use of color while remaining rooted in the romantic tradition of early 20th-century Catalan art.Active from the 1910s to the 1960s, Bosch i Canals exhibited in major Barcelona galleries such as Galeries Dalmau, Galeries Laietanes, Sala Gaspar, and Sala Pallarès. His work was consistently praised in leading newspapers including La Vanguardia, El Noticiero Universal, and La Publicitat.Although he avoided the spotlight and produced a relatively limited number of works--around 276 in total--Bosch i Canals is valued by collectors for his refined technique, atmospheric compositions, and historical significance within the Catalan art scene.Perfect for collectors of early 20th-century Spanish painting, Bosch Canals' artworks are a testament to the enduring charm of classical landscape art in Catalonia.Packing, Shipping and insurance from Barcelona calculated at checkout.UK, EU, USA & Canada: EUR420For all other destinations email: hi@moderndecorative.comFor item purchase and better viewing.
