

A Very Chimerical Speculoos Mold

285 EUR

Period : 19th century

Condition : Parfait état

Material : Solid wood

Length : 91 cm

Width : 7cm

Height : 3,5 cm

Description

Agreed for inventiveness when you were a pastry chef, you had to stand out... In Belgium, a specialty was (and still is) speculoos, a biscuit with brown sugar and spices (anise, cloves, nutmeg, ginger). A gourmet delight that has no equal with a good coffee and which goes very well with the holidays of the calendar (Christmas, St. Nicholas, Easter...). But what pushed this craftsman to make a mold of a fish that does not exist and which has the courage to measure 90 cm long.... I imagine the face of the child who, unwrapping his treat, finds himself face to face with a biscuit that could be as big as him... Superb object of folk art, monoxyl. 19th century.

Dealer

Complément d'objets

sciences, ethnical, naturalia, artificialia, didactical items, curiosities

Tel :

Mobile : 00 32 477 450 595

Wemmel 1780