Description

Dimensions: 65 x 46 cm (frame), 52 x 34 cm (view) Delicate 19th-century drawing, made using mixed techniques (graphite and hand-coloring), depicting a lady dressed in Renaissance-inspired clothing and jewelry. The portrait is distinguished by the attention paid to the details of the face, the texture of the dress, and the ornaments, reflecting the historicist taste typical of the period. The work is presented in a later frame, probably from the 20th century, which adequately preserves the original work. Decorative and collectible piece, representative of the 19th-century interest in the Renaissance and the idealized female portrait.
