Description

18th Century Flemish School, Oil on Wood, The House by the River

Description:

This work, attributed to the 18th Century Flemish School, depicts a peaceful rural scene. It features a small house with a red roof, surrounded by imposing trees, situated near a river with mountains in the background. Two people in front of the house add a touch of life to this idyllic scene. The partially cloudy sky gives a calm and serene atmosphere to the whole. This painting evokes the typical landscapes of the 18th century Netherlands, where countryside scenes with rivers and rustic houses were common.

Signature: Trace of signature (unidentified).
