Description

Very beautiful pair of Henri II style oak chairs from the end of the 19th century. Our seats rest on four fluted legs connected by a turned wooden spacer forming an H. The backrest is very high, it is entirely openwork and carved. On each side of it, at the base, a large rectangular die with feather decoration holds a fluted column topped with a spinning top. Four large vertical and molded bars frame a carved plaque with a foliage motif. The whole is topped with a beautiful richly carved cartouche. The seat of our chairs is in very good condition, it has been recently redone and is very firm. The covering fabric is made with small stitches and represents a pretty bouquet of varied flowers.
