Description

Charming polychrome bronze sculpture, representing a musical cat with a mandolin, typical of Vienna productions. Stamp of the Bergmann workshop (amphora B), famous for its expressive and delicately colored animal bronzes. The head, originally articulated, is now removable - a remnant of a mechanism that is now inoperative. The original polychromy shows signs of wear, authentic witnesses to the passage of time. A collector's item full of character, at the crossroads of humor and decorative art. Austrian work, Vienna towards the end of the 19th century.
