Description

Rare, ageless chest that contained treasures for these noble peoples... Which could be powders or medicinal herbs, or even salt for example... The doors are part of the elements exhibited in museums to illustrate the elaborate cosmogony of the Dogons. But that such a powerful evocation of the origins of the Universe serves as a door to a chest is really not common. I invite you to read the details on Wikipedia about this: the Dogons could serve as an example for us in many life situations.
